Dear Patients and Friends,

It comes with great sadness that I send you this letter today. I will be leaving my practice to move back home to South Carolina to be near my family. Many of you know that my Mother has been ill and I thank you for all your thoughts and prayers during this difficult time. This letter is not sent without a great deal of thought as to how you might be affected. Many of you came to my practice after you were sent scrambling to locate another physician when your previous one closed their office. Please do not worry about having to search for someone new. The physician I have hand-selected to take over my practice is highly qualified to manage your healthcare.

I hired Dr. Paul Wang in January of this year on a part-time basis to cover my practice when this family medical crisis began. I have received countless calls thanking me for bringing him in to work with me and given these welcome responses by so many of you, I feel comfortable letting him step in my shoes full-time. Dr. Wang is a devoted spouse and father of two precious children who has been practicing hospital medicine at Presbyterian Hospital of Plano for the past four years. He is excited about this transition into the outpatient arena and is looking forward to continuing to provide you with the best medical care. Dr. Wang will be assuming full responsibility of my practice effective April 1, 2009. He will maintain possession of all your medical records. The office location and phone number will not change anytime in the near future to help you in this transition.

Many of you have been with me from the opening of my practice in 2005 and others have just joined me. All of you have made a mark in my life and it has been both a pleasure and an honor to have participated in providing your medical care. I have laughed with many of you and cried with others and I will cherish these memories as I start another practice in Mt. Pleasant, SC.

With warmest regards,

Kristina Hursey, MD
